Air Force ROTC still hiring

ROTC

The Air Force is tripling the number of pilot slots available to ROTC cadets to 300 beginning in fiscal year 1996.

In fiscal year 1997, this number will again increase to 416 and is expected to climb to 560 in the year 2000. Additionally, navigator slots are increasing to 189 in 1996, and leveling out at 175 through 2000.

"This is an exciting time to be in the Air Force ROTC," said Brig. Gen. Susan Pamerleau, commandant. "Much of the Air Force is still experiencing force reductions, but ROTC is on the upswing. There is a significant increase in requirements for second lieutenants in every career field," she said.

Along with the increase in cadets comes an increase in scholarship opportunities. "There has never been a better time for high school or college students interested in an Air Force career to receive an Air Force ROTC scholarship," she said. Many ROTC scholarships cover tuition, books, and fees and gives the student a $100 monthly stipend, scheduled to increase to $150 next year, according to the general.

After graduation, ROTC cadets are commissioned as second lieutenants in the Air Force and must serve a minimum of four years as an Air Force officer. Total pay for new second lieu-

ICC encourages cooperation between organizations

ICC

The University of Missouri Rolla has always had a large number of Christian students and teachers. These students and teachers have founded independent Christian groups on campus in order to fellowship with each other. In the past, the various groups have had trouble communicating and working together.

Interfaith Christian Council (ICC) was formed based on the need for better communication and interaction. The purpose of ICC is to provide communication between the various Christian groups on campus. By meeting once or twice a month, activities can be better publicized, concerns addressed, and support can be built for good ideas. ICC also provides a larger base for financial and people power allowing the Christians on campus to provide campus wide activities and involvement.

ICC began in 1993 as a small group of students working together in hopes of providing campus wide activities. Over two years time, the group grew until it was necessary to be recognized by campus in order to continue the work. ICC became a recognized organization on campus the summer of 1994. Since then, the council has coordinated a Christian Children's Carnival for community families, held a discussion to improve ICC is comprised of eight of the thirteen Christian organizations on campus. We represent a comparable to the Greek organizations on campus. In fact, much of the Greek student body is very active in the council.

All students are invited to contact the ICC or another group of your choosing. Students are encouraged to voice any ideas, concerns, or curiosity. The ICC can also be reached via email to icc@umr.edu. We are building a WWW page and will soon be available from the student organizations list on the UMR home page.

Miner Global News: a weekly glimpse of civilization

Michael Madden
Staff Writer

As sports fans abroad await the triumphant return of Major League Baseball, many imperative news stories continue to unfold. A synopsis of the major stories of the week follows:

April 10, 1995:

—Senate majority leader Bob Dole made it official: he will run for the GOP Presidential nomination in 1996.
—Kevin Lee Poulsen, a computer hacker who stole classified Air Force information and rigged call-in contests to win luxurious prizes, was sentenced to 51 months in prison. This sentence is the harshest ever given to a computer hacker.

—In unhumanitarian fashion, Rwandan officials blocked trucks carrying food for the 1 million refugees in Zaire.

—To the applaud of Washington officials, Yasser Arafat arrested 112 militants suspected of participating in suicide bombs which killed 7 Israelis and an American college student. This move could push Palestinians closer to civil war.

April 12, 1995:

—President Clinton vowed to repay Pakistan for the blocked $1.4 billion sale of fighter jets: "I don't think it's right," Clinton said of keeping the planes without payment.

—The U.N. Security Council discussed reports that Iraq is developing biological weapons for offensive purposes. These allegations will hurt Iraq's chance for eased economic sanctions.

—Doctors announced that a diet rich in fruit and vegetables will greatly decrease the chance of strokes.

—Conditions are reported to be less than complimentary in Iraq for two Americans being held there: the two were sentenced earlier to eight years in prison for illegally entering Iraq.

April 12, 1995:

—Billionaire investor Kirk Kerkorian and Chrysler chairman, Lee Iacocca, bid $22.8 million to take over the remaining 90% of the Chrysler stock.

—Despite an overwhelming number of candidates for President in 1996, six out of ten Americans favor a third party over the Republicans and Democrats.

—An evidence collector admitted that samples of O.J. Simpson's blood sat for several hours in a overheated truck because the refrigerator was not working.

—The State Department said that Slobodan Milosevic, Serbia's President, rejected a peace proposal with Bosnia.

April 13, 1995:

—Japan revealed a plan to recuperate the U.S. dollar after its crippling effects on the Japanese economy.

—A federal appeals court ordered officials to admit Shannon Faulkner to The Citadel for military training.

—After lethargic efforts in past weeks, police began a nationwide search to find the leaders of a cult suspected of the deadly nerve gas attacks in the Japanese transit system.

—In Chicago, a confused, tired mother "hurled" her 16-month old son to his death through a closed 8th story window after he refused to stop crying.

April 14, 1995:

—A 4.0 aftershock rocked western Texas: little damage was done.

—Procrastinators abroad rushed to finish their tax returns before the government-imposed midnight deadline.

—On-line communications continued to rise according to computing officials: E-mail continues to grow in popularity around the world.

—People from all walks of life and all around the globe prepared their hearts and minds to celebrate Jesus Christ's resurrection on Easter Sunday.

Recently we asked our alumni, students and faculty and staff to submit ideas for a new logo to replace the old "block" University of Missouri logo that has been in use for years. Many entries were received, and the campus logo search committee has selected the six ideas at right as finalists. Now we are welcoming your comments and suggestions. Please look at the logo ideas shown here and give us your thoughts on how effective each is in identifying the University of Missouri-Rolla. Remember that this new logo will be used on official campus stationery, athletic uniforms, signage, and publications, so it needs to be adaptable to a variety of applications, and easily recognizable by a large variety of audiences.

The Life and Times...Caution: Falling G.P.A.'s

Howdy, oh fellow egg hunters/hiders/eaters out there, and welcome back to yet another exciting episode of "As The Grades Fall." Yes, it's that time of year again: the trees are blooming, the flowers are blossoming, and none of us can see a doggone bit of it because we're all locked away in our little tiny prison cells -- uh, I mean study rooms-- slaving away over the lab write-up from heck, wondering how on earth we'll ever get all this stuff done --let alone turn it in before the professor starts to get REALLY grouchy-- and lighting candles at the private altar we've built to either the gods of partial credit (yes, Virginia, there really is a Santa Claus), the Great and Powerful Oz, or to my own personal favorite saint, St. Jude: patron of lost causes.

But see, I've got a theory on all this. (Yes, yes, yes, I see you all rolling your eyes because for some strange reason you seem to think I've got a theory on everything. Well, actually, you're pretty dang close. See, the only thing I don't have a theory on is why I have a theory for everything. Perplexing, isn't it? Anyway, I'm sure that I could even come up with something for that, if given the proverbial infinite number of monkeys, infinite number of typewriters, and infinite amount of time. If the complete works of Shakespeare can be written under those conditions, I don't see why it couldn't help me, too.) The way I figure it, thirty years from now, no one is really going to give a flying fig about the grades I got in one or two particular classes while I was attending the University of Missouri at Rolla. All they're going to care about by then is offering me early retirement so they can bring in some new, young, fresh-blood whippersnapper to take over my position as Chief Paper Airplane Thrower at a major corporation. And if that kid just happened to get a few bad --oh, excuse me, un-good-- grades himself while he was in engineering school, well, that's his own problem.

Ah, yes, you say, but then how, pray tell, do you expect to find a first job, oh wise one? Well, I've got that all figured out, too. See, all I need to do is become really powerful, really fast, and then I've got a ticket to the good life for the rest of my earthly days. Once you become famous for doing something --i.e. winning the Nobel Peace Prize, raising $10,065.42 for the missions in Ugandawandabangladesh, taking out four or five professors from a sniper position on the top of Norwood Hall-- you can live like royalty forever, simply by doing commercials, cameo appearances in Perry Mason murder mysteries, or a guest spot on "60 Minutes" with Barbara Walters. I mean, really: once you've been seen on the same screen as Barbara Walters, why, you're set for life!

But I digress. Slightly. See, I'm really not as fame- and fortune-hungry as I may sound. I've already got the universe at my fingertips by that whole Supreme Leader position I happen to hold. Yet, even those of us intergalactic leaders need a little cash every once in a while. You know, just for the basics (and no, my definition of "basics" is not 1,200 pairs of shoes, like some other former foreign leaders I know.)

So, until I land a spot next to Baba Wawa for doing something stupendous, I guess I'll just have to keep chugging away at these articles and try to win my infamy that way. Somehow, though, I don't exactly picture a Pulitzer coming my way anytime soon. Therefore, I suppose I'm still stuck doing my homework, writing up my labs, and attempting to pass the majority of my tests. (You know, if Congress only needs a simple majority for a lot of its

Greetings and salutations, my loyal followers!

Well, the end of another wonderful semester is fast approaching and where are you at? You know, are you afearin' for yer life? Or will you simply bring this one to a close like so many other successful semesters? OR, are you playing the numbers game?

You know what I'm talking about, the one that goes like this: OK, we've had 750 possible points. Of that, I've got 328, and we still have a 200 point final. Assuming a slight curve of 5%, I think I can still get my 'B' in this class if I really kick butt on the final, and that in turn will absorb some of the 'D' shock from Calc III, and I might be able to come back next Fall after all...

Ah, yes, the numbers game.... Like so many other things around here, it's not for the timid or the weak.

Now, for you boys and girls that still haven't found enough strange and terrible things to do to your bodies on your own, I've got something for you. I'm warning you ahead of time, though if you aren't scared by this, then you truly are sick and you might want to consider getting some outside help.

But, on with the story...

Over the years, I have tried many approaches to finals (all the usuals, like taking my vitamins, working out, eating healthy, and studying like a madman), but they just didn't do it for me. Then I was introduced to the hugest thrill of them all, Big Brother of the Cold Turkey Method, the baddest of the bad, the meanest of the mean... Yes, indeed folks, it's THE BIG BLOWOFF.

It's kind of like the Cold Turkey Method. In fact, it's very similar, except the stakes are much higher. A typical scenario would go something like this: You come back from a very relaxing Spring Break of surfing (channel surfing, that is) and you just don't feel like doing a damn thing. So, as you're sitting at your desk the Sunday before it all begins again, smoking your last cigarette, staring at the mountains of books and projects before you, you evaluate your performance to date with a shrug. Ah, yes, you were going to do so much over break, get all caught up and even get ahead so that you wouldn't have to do anything, so you could just coast into finals. Then a hard bite from the reality bug: you didn't do anything - sure you should have, but who can work on Spring Break??? So, you weigh the pros and cons of working around the clock for the next five weeks for a minimal increase in your G.P.A., and decide that it's better to go out in style.

So, a condemned man, you make your decision. It's the only thing you can do and keep your sanity - blow it all off! There are a couple of ways to approach this: 1) you can go back to wherever it is you went over Spring Break and wait for finals to roll around, 2) stay here in Rolla, do everything but study, and try to annoy your roommates at every chance, or 3) gather up some food, all your loaned-out cd's, and your

Postulate for Optional Careers

Well, more than a few people have approached me to inform me that my last article about "things that suck" really sucked. I realized that after I had typed it, but gosh darn it, I was just too lazy to go back and change it. But not being one to impersonate a Hoover, this week I will try present a "real" column.

Those of you who dared to read last week's article have probably picked up on the fact that I didn't like certain aspects of school, namely failing classes. Because of that (and Freshman Eng. Class), I have begun to think about jobs other than those available in the Engineering Fields.

Probably my first choice would be a cool job like what Hercules has. Think about it. All he does is roam the countryside helping well-endowed damsels in distress. That in-and-of-itself is pretty cool, but he also gets to meet and mingle with supernatural creatures and visit exotic locations like hell.

If for some reason that fell through, I do believe my next choice would be a professional psychic. They too get to meet lots of interesting people (although 90% of them seem to be soap opera stars) and make a ton of money in the process.

The only problem I would have with this job is that I would get bored and start making up some incredibly wacky stuff (like telling some governor of a small midwest state that he will become president or something) and that would get me in trouble because I would be laughing so hard....

Hmmmmmm.... what else.... Oh, yes, I also would like to become a towel boy at Club Med. Now, there's a job with perks! Hehehehe... I can see it now, warm sun, tropical breezes, rich, wet women, yeah... That would be really cool. Unfortunately I guess they would fire me after I got too old (like 23-years old, with my luck), so I would be forced to take on a second career.

Second careers can be tricky, though. I would have to find one that I already have a talent for and would not mind doing for the next few years. I could always go back to my old job as point guard for the Chicago Bulls... Ooops! Wrong life!

Well if nothing else, I can just go cash in a few favors and get guest roles on "Baywatch" and "Family Matters." But, until then, I guess I will just keep plugging away at this

on my own

Hello, Rolla. Sorry I missed the last paper, but my evil profs made sure I had plenty of tests and labs due right after spring break. I did get to see a couple of good bands over break and got some tickets for upcoming shows this summer. A lot of good shows have been announced for Riverport in St. Louis. I recommend going to Tom Petty and Reggae Sunsplash, and the Point-fest looks real good this year. Both the Sunsplash and Point-fest should give a lot a music per dollar, and at Riverport, those dollars don't seem to go very far. Hope to see you there.

Buddy Guy Slippin' In Silvertone Records

Sound Quality 7
Performance 8

When anyone asks me who is my favorite blues performer, two words quickly come to mind: Buddy Guy. In my opinion, he is the best blues performer alive. This is my opinion, so don't start yelling about the other greats out there. Except for Stevie Ray Vaughn, few others have done as much to blend the blues and rock and roll. This cd is no exception.

Lately the "in" thing for rock performers has been to show their blues side: Eric Clapton's From the Cradle, Jimmi Hendrix's Blues, Sheryl Crow on the House of Blues ... Buddy Guy has done the opposite, adding a little rock and roll style to his blues. This faster bluesy style is very evident with the songs, "Shame Shame Shame," "Love Her With A Feeling," "Slippin' Out-Slippin' In," and "Man of Many Words." "Man of Many Words" reminds me alot of the Black Crows.

There are a few very traditional, slow grinding blues numbers also, like "7-11" and "Trouble Blues." He really shows off what that Fender can do on the song "Little Dab-A-Doo." The rest of the cd's 11 tracks are what I call typical Buddy Guy songs. They are similar to those on his past two releases, Can't Stand the Weather and Damn Right I Got The Blues. Both of these cd's are great, and I would recommend them to anyone.

The biggest difference between this cd and the past two is the fact that Buddy isn't sharing the limelight. On both Can't Stand the Weather and Damn Right, Buddy played with some of rock and blues biggest stars, Eric Clapton, Jeff Beck, Mark Knopfler, Bonnie Raitt, Paul Rodgers, Travis Tritt, Richie Hayward, and John Mayall. This time, he plays with his own band, doing mostly songs that he wrote.

If you are a big BG fan, like myself, you will be pleased and maybe distraught to know he will be playing at the Memphis in May/Beale Street Fest this year. The bad news is that is on May 6. With 5 finals, I doubt I will be able to catch the show. Hopefully, I will be able to see him sometime this summer. Pick up this cd if you get a chance; you will be very pleased.

Miner Baseball Splits and Remains Outside Looking In

Hans Thullesen
Staff Writer

The baseball Miners ended the conference season on a good note as they split with the Southwest Baptist University Bearcats this past weekend. Lefty Mike Banfield started off the weekend by hurling a complete-game shutout in the first game on Friday. Banfield gave up eight hits over nine innings while walking only two batters, giving UMR the 1-0 victory. The Miner's only score came in the sixth inning when junior left fielder Nathan Wade led off with a single and advanced to third on first baseman Scott Niernan's double. With one out, freshman designated hitter Matt Bryant pushed home the only run with an RBI fielder's choice to the second baseman.

In the second game, UMR scored seven runs in the first inning on only two hits. Righthander Allen Jones gave up three runs (two earned) to defeat the Bearcats 7-3, while freshman Matt Bryant earned the save. Offensively for the Miners, shortstop Vince Como, second baseman James Van Iten and right fielder Dan McGinnis had the only hits, with McGinnis picking up two RBI.

On Saturday UMR came up short in a slugfest, losing the first game 14-7. Matt Bryant went 3-for-4 for the Miners with an RBI, and junior Dan McGinnis was 1-for-4 with a three-run homer in the eighth. SBU scored nine runs in the first inning on six hits and three errors. The Bearcats scored once in the sixth on a solo homer by Johnny Katrosh and four times in the seventh on three hits. Geoff Seavey got the loss for the Miners, going the first five innings. Sophomore Wegman threw the sixth and seventh, while junior Pete Mueller pitched the last two innings.

Saturday's second game saw the Miners fall short again, 6-2. Three straight doubles in the first inning earned two runs for the Bearcats. SBU scored another unanswered run in the second and three in the third. UMR scored a run in the third when James Van Iten drew a walk to lead off the inning and Dan McGinnis scored Van Iten on a two-out double. Jeff Ulrich scored the other UMR run in the fourth by hitting a double and scoring on an error. At the plate for UMR, Dan McGinnis was 2-for-3 with an RBI.

The weekend raised the UMR record to 14-26 overall and 3-16 in the MIAA. The Miners are scheduled to play a doubleheader against Lindenwood College this Tuesday at home at 1:00pm.

M-Club Athlete of the Week

Nikki Wray, Lady Miner Softball

This week's M-Club athlete of the week is Nikki Wray. While the whole campus was away on Spring Break, the Miner Baseball and Softball teams played ball almost everyday. Nicki is a junior from O'Fallon, Illinois. She is majoring in Engineering Management and is the centerfielder for the Miner softball team. Nicki is batting .322 and has 22 RBI's. She is ranked 12th in the nation with 16 doubles. Congratulations to Nicki and the rest of the Lady Miner softball team.

Lady Miner Softball Hangs Tough In Conference

The Lady Miner softball team was busy during the school's spring break as it was able to play 13 games. Unfortunately, the team did not fare as well as it would have like as it won only four of the 13 contests to finish the week at 19-18 overall and 3-7 in the MIAA.

After sweeping Evangel to start the week, UMR scratched out a 4-3, 13-inning win over Southwest Baptist when Erin Collins (Schuyler, Neb.) drove in Amy Buttimer (O'Fallon, Ill.) with the game-winning run. However, SBU won the nightcap 1-0 as it scored a sixth-inning run off Collins. The loss sent the Lady Miners on a seven-game losing streak, which included doubleheader losses at Culver-Stockton and Missouri-Kansas City.

UMR ended the streak in dramatic fashion Saturday. After losing its first two games at the Bearcat Softball Classic, hosted by Northwest Missouri State, UMR trailed Dana College 10-2 entering the bottom of the sixth inning. But the Lady Miners scored five runs in that inning, then forced extra innings when Kristan King (Overland Park, Kan.) hit a three-run homer in the bottom of the seventh. UMR won the game when leading hitter April Buesch (Freeburg, Ill.) hitting .393 for the season, drove in pinch-runner Kathleen Ritchey (Waukesha, Wis.) in the eighth for the 11-10 win.

Buesch leads the team in hitting while King leads in home runs (two) and runs batted in (31) to go along with a .345 average. Nicki Wray (O'Fallon, Ill.) continues to rank among the national leaders in doubles, as she added five last week to increase her total to 16 for the season.

FILL OUT A STUDENT COUNCIL SURVEY ON THE WORLD-WIDE WEB!

An easy way to let your opinion be heard is to fill out the Student Council Survey on the World-Wide Web. It can be accessed under Student Information, similar to accessing your CAPS report. Here's how to do this on a campus computer:

- 1) Login
- 2) Get to the "UMRMENU"
- 3) Go to Windows 3.11
- 4) Click on Network Access, then Netscape (the really big "N")
- 5) Use this to access the UMR homepage

- 6) Scroll down to Local Web Services
- 7) Click on Student Information,
- 8) Type Student Id. number and pin number where appropriate
- 9) Click on "Submit Request"
- 10) Then go to "Student Survey" and answer the questions.

This is the same thing as the paper surveys, so if you've already filled out, then there's no need to fill out another one. If you have any problems or questions, contact the StuCo office at 341-4280 or e-mail stuco@umr.edu.

StuCo's Need a Member of the Month for March

Suzanne Lynch is Student Council's Member of the Month for March. She is currently a member of the Public Relations Committee of Student Council. During the month of March Suzanne organized a Kiss-A-Pig fundraiser that StuCo will be doing next year. The money raised from this will go to sponsor a skating party for Rolla children. Suzanne is also an advisor for the Chancellor's Leadership class and serves as treasurer for Kappa Mu Epsilon.

For these reasons, Suzanne was selected as StuCo's Member of the Month for March. Thanks for all of your hard work, Suzanne!

Do you have a legal problem or a question? Wish you knew someone who could answer it? Now you do, thanks to StuCo -- David Steelman, Randy Carnahan, and Charles Bennett are lawyers who provide totally free legal advice to all students and faculty. It is on a first come, first serve basis. One of them will be there every week, once a week in the Walnut Room in University Center West on the following days at 2:30 pm.:

Students Have Input Into Chancellor's 1995-96 Strategic Action Plan

The Strategic Action Planning Committee of Student Council has spent the semester working in conjunction with the Chancellor's Strategic Planning Group, providing student input for the Chancellor's 1995-96 Strategic Action Plan. Currently, the committee is developing possible action items for the plan. An action item is a specific step that will be taken in the next year by individuals, groups, departments, or divisions of the university that will work towards achieving the university's mission.

Issues that will be incorporated into action item proposals include:

- * Increasing awareness of undergraduate research opportunities.
- * Providing novell disk space for all students.
- * Developing an advisor evaluation process.
- * Investigating the effectiveness of current Teaching Assistants.
- * Employing students to teach students, faculty, and staff network/internet skills.
- * Constructing two campus bulletin boards.

- * Developing a plan to utilize space previously occupied by temporary buildings and land adjacent to the Civil Engineering building for additional parking.
- * Developing a plan for the renovation of the track.
- * Providing a permanent 24-hour study/computer area on campus.
- * Expanding the Computer Learning Center in the library.
- * Increasing the hours of the library.
- * Moving towards on-line class registration.
- * Bringing fast food to campus.
- * Establishing a credit line on student ID's.
- * Revising the current teaching evaluation forms.
- * Providing a location for campus day care.

The Strategic Action Planning Committee is looking for your input on action item proposals. Contact us through email (stuco@umr.edu) or give us a call at the Student Council Office (341-4280). (Contact persons: Brian Harris and Josh Skaggs) strictly academic and financial need are considered in the selection process. Selected students will receive up to $2,500.00. Deadlines for 1995 are April 15th, June 15th, and November 30th. Applicants must be mailed by these dates.

Students may receive an application by sending their requests along with a self-addressed, stamped (US 32 cents) No. 10 envelope to: The John Gyles Education Fund, Attention: R. James Cogle, Administrator, P.O. Box 4808, 712 Riverside Drive, Fredericton, New Brunswick, Canada E3B 5G4

WILLIAM M REISS FOUNDATION SCHOLARSHIP FUND

The William M. Reiss Foundation, established by Mr. Reiss prior to his death on July 14, 1975, is managed by Boatmen's Trust Company of Illinois. A portion of the income from the foundation is used for scholarships to accredited colleges and universities in the United States and its possessions.

Scholarship recipients are limited to graduates of publicly supported high schools located within the city limits of Belleville, Illinois. Students working toward a degree in medicine, but not nursing, are excluded. Post baccalaureate students will not be considered.

The selection committee consists of two officers of Boatmen's Trust Company of Illinois, and an Administrator of Belleville Area College. Selection is made primarily upon academic promise and financial need. Since the scholarship is based on merit and financial need, an official needs analysis (FAFSA) document is required for determination of financial need. The amount of the award is fixed by the committee and may be sufficient to include any or all of tuition, room, and board.

Awards will normally be made on a one-year basis. All relevant materials must be submitted by May 1, 1995. Recipients will be announced as soon as possible after June 30, 1995.

REAL ASTROLOGY FOR AN UNREAL WORLD

ARIES (MAR. 21-APR.19): You have every right to strut around with a big head this week. A conspiracy of astrological forces is daring you to preen and brag and show off. I'll just ask you to keep in mind the difference between bad ego trips and good ego trips. During the nasty ones, you ooze half-baked overconfidence, self-defeating insensitivity, and withering arrogance. During the saintly kind of ego trips, you exude self-assured efficiency, unpretentious mastery, and forceful grace. Guess which type doesn't create a whole lot of hell to pay later.

TAURUS (APR. 20-MAY 20): The ancient Romans observed a holiday called Robigalia in April. Devotees performed rituals to exorcise the God of Mildew. To recognize the importance of your own current battle against insidious rot, I'd like to suggest a revival of this old festival. How to celebrate it? First, buy a load of disinfectants and scour away all the sludge, the splurge, the scum, and the gunk still lingering in your home or car from winter's incursions. Next, do the same thing on a metaphorical level. Scrub all the glop, the muck, the bilge, and the grime out of your psyche.

GEMINI (MAY 21-JUNE 20): My advice this week might be controversial, especially with people who prefer you to be slightly repressed. I'm not even sure I agree with it myself. Nevertheless, the planetary configurations were quite unambiguous, and I feel I have a duty to convey their message without censorship. It seems that you're supposed to take to heart the following exhortation from the ancient Chinese sage, Lao-Tse: "You should allow everything to run its course without check or restriction. Let the ear hear what it likes, let the eye see what it likes, let the nose smell what it likes, let the mouth say what it likes, let the body enjoy what it likes, and let the mind think what it likes."

CANCER (JUNE 21-JULY 22): At a big dinner in Scotland many years ago, I was shocked when the head of the household suddenly plunked his heavy workboot down on the table. Turned out that was the traditional prelude to proposing a toast. Since then I've tried to keep that custom alive here in the New World. And what better time to introduce it to you than now, as you approach a phase in your astrological cycle that's like a combination graduation, promotion and harvest.

So imagine me parking one of my brand new, size 13, all-black Converse hightops on my TV dinner tray thinking of you with tears brimming in my eyes, and exclaiming, "May you forevermore be professional where you until now you've been an amateur."

LEO (JULY 23-AUG. 22): This week we've got something for almost everyone's religious needs. We've got Easter for you Christians, Passover for you Jews, and a full moon and lunar eclipse for you pagans. We've even got the year's first Midnight Picnic Festival for you devotees of Naked Dancing Buddhism. Actually, I hope you belong to at least two of these faiths, because you have a whole hell of a lot of spiritual energy to burn these days. (I haven't seen you flirting so outrageously with sacred rapture since March of 1986.) It wouldn't be excessive for you to put in two hours of ecstatic worship every single day.

VIRGO (AUG. 23-SEPT. 22): You're as soaking wet with briny emotion as a Pisces on a binge. You're as deep into the labyrinth of your own making as all those Geminis who're too smart for their own good. You're as skilled as a listener as a Scorpio who's trying to find a secret vulnerability in a valuable ally.

In other words, it must be time to celebrate your unbirthday. You're temporarily as unlike a Virgo as it's possible for a Virgo to be. Imagine everything you never thought you could be

-then be it.

LIBRA (SEPT. 23-OCT.22): As I contemplate your life these days, I'm reminded of an image from a Sioux tale: An eagle circling above its own shadow mistakes the shadow for potential prey. At other times when I turn my thought to you, I'm reminded of the Greek myth of Narcissus, who, upon peering into a pool and seeing his reflection for the first time in his life, thinks it's a gorgeous water spirit.

These two sound contradictory, I know. But I think that's because you yourself are a walking paradox right now. I believe I'm tuning into your own mixed emotions as you behold aspects of yourself you've never seen objectively before.

SCORPIO (OCT.23-NOV. 21): Go to a psychiatrist and she'll try to sell you a story about what was wrong with your childhood. Seek the opinion of a chiropractor and he'll inform you that all your problems originate in your spine. Consult a TV psychic and he'll probably say your past lives are a mess. Come to me and I'll tell you how smart and beautiful you are.

Moral of the story: Choose your diagnosticians wisely. The feedback you get about your precious self will be heavily weighted with the world view of the person you consult.

SAGITTARIUS (NOV. 22-DEC. 21): Strictly speaking, the sweet spot is the place on a tennis racket or baseball bat where you get the best results when striking the ball. But I'd like to expand the term to include the astrological phase you're now in. You've arrived at the sweet spot, baby. From this vantage point, you can do no wrong. Or if you do make a "mistake," it will precipitate wonderful coincidences. Here in the sweet spot, you are the embodiment of all that's melodious, delicious, and aromatic. Yum yum.

CAPRICORN (DEC. 22-JAN.19): You spend one-third of your life sleeping, and about one-fifth of that time dreaming. In other words, you watch, every single day, the equivalent of a 90-minute movie produced by and starring you. Admittedly, many of the films are not exactly Oscar-worthy, and it's no surprise you can't recall the plots when you awaken. If my astrological calculations are correct, though, your immediate future should be different. I predict the next seven nights of dreams will provide a full ten hours of riveting, blockbuster entertainment--all based on the true, mysterious story of your secret destiny. If you've never kept a favorite blanket, and retire to your room until it's time for finals. Then, hole up: don't answer the phone or the door, listen to your favorite music, read a good book, learn to play an instrument. But, whatever you do, you absolutely cannot think about school and the associated homework/projects 'cause if you do, it'll all be lost. You'll give in and start studying and doing all the things you swore you weren't going to do.

Talking about this, I am reminded of two young lads that chose to enter into a Tetris challenge (the GameBoy version) 4 hours before their Phys 24 final. Normally, you would say, "Ah, they were studied out and were relaxing before the big test." Well, you are partly right: they were relaxing before the big test, but the thought of studying for the final hadn't even really crossed their little minds. The thing is, they both should have been studying. In fact, they should have been attending all the study sessions that were offered for the two weeks before Dead Week and going over their old tests to see if they might have been cheated out of a point here and there (they had also been playing the numbers game and things just really didn't look good). Now, imagine doing that for all of your classes.... It's as close to suicide as I'd ever want to get. Incidentally, the two young lads ended up doing quite well, though how, no one will ever know.

Now, for those of you who are interested in this little idea, there is hope. You can get help from one of the counselors over at Norwood Hall or you can actually go through with The Big Blowoff.

If you should choose to go through with this and are able to come back next semester, I will do a feature article on you. To verify the story, I will need a few things: a notarized, detailed description of your experiences and activities (with input from your roommates if you still have them) and copies of your mid-term and final grades. I figure that anyone with enough guts to actually go through with this deserves some kind of reward. However, I must say that I do not endorse this kind of activity, and it is purely voluntary should anyone decide to try this -I AM NOT LIABLE FOR YOUR ACADEMIC PERFORMANCE OR YOUR FUTURE ENROLLMENT AT THIS UNIVERSITY!!!!

So with that said, I'll see you next week....

rulings that affect an entire nation, why should I have to know 70% of everything I'm taught in a 16-week period in all of six different classes just to be able to move onto the next stage in my rather young --cosmically speaking-- life? It must be the new math.) Anyway, I hope you all are doing okay, stocking up on grape juice and Oreo cookies (brain food, you know), and lighting all those altar candles while you still have a chance. The apocalypse is coming, and it's going by the name of Finals.

AQUARIUS (JAN.21-FEB. 18):
Let's talk about The Game. You know what I mean, right? The Unnamed Game. The Game that's so huge and all encompassing it's almost impossible to be aware of.

What if you found out that one of the supposedly immutable rules in The Game was merely a local statute, and no longer held true when you moved to a bigger arena on a higher level? And what if I told you that just outside the boundaries of The Game, two new allies are waiting for you to invite them in so they can introduce you to short-cuts and loopholes you never dreamed existed?

PISCES (FEB. 19-MAR. 20): I've been boning up on a new fortune-telling technique called scarpomancy. It involves divining character from a person's old shoes. This week I've examined the well-worn footwear of over a hundred Pisceans, and I've concluded that you folks are making gritty strides toward developing a more practical approach to life. You're walking your talk more than you perhaps ever have before. The baby steps you've taken towards greater discipline and organization are beginning to add up to a giant step.

There was one last truth revealed to me in the course of my soothsaying: You need to go out and buy some new shoes.

It's One Of The Most Useful Credit Cards On The Planet. Unless You've Stolen It. Your MasterCard® is stolen. You panic, get angry, panic some more. Then you call and cancel it. Now the thief is in possession of, oh, about seven cents worth of stolen plastic. (Maybe he can use it as a coaster when he entertains at the hideout.) So relax. You only have to pay for stuff you bought, and you can get a new card the next day.* It'll be accepted at millions of places, one of which must sell wallets. MasterCard. It's more than a credit card. It's smart money.™
